TOTAL CAOS GOES DISNEY!

Recently, Total CAOS went Disney at St Athan Village Hall, where children were supported by some adult CAOS friends.

There were songs from Lion King, Cinderella, Toy Story, Beauty and the Beast, and Tarzan. This was the first time some of the children had performed in public.

The war memorial has been realigned... NOW TOWN'S HERO IS STAYING PUT!

REPORT by TIM CHAPMAN

ONE of Cowbridge's most iconic sights is its war memorial, complete with the statue of a uniformed soldier, his head bowed in dignified and solemn remembrance.

On Sunday, July 21, the soldier was removed – briefly – from his position on top of the plinth so that essential work could go ahead.

The problem was that the base stone of the memorial had moved out of alignment – something spotted by a member of the public some time ago.

How the base shifted remains a mystery.

The work of repositioning the plinth was undertaken by Mossfords Monumental Sculptors.

All the parts of the memorial were dismantled and it was then reassembled – properly aligned.

The work took four hours, from 8am until 12 noon.

LEASE OF LIFE FOR POLICE STATION

COWBRIDGE police station has been given a new lease of life after being reopened as a 'base for public protection' across the Vale and Bridgend.

Police say 'public protection' is a challenging area of business for the force, which had seen continued growth in recent years.

It is staffed by experienced and highly-skilled officers and police staff, who are responsible for child abuse investigations, vulnerable adult abuse investigations, the management of sexual and violent offenders, and domestic abuse.

These elements include the investigation of offences, prosecuting offenders and safeguarding of young and vulnerable people.

Chief Superintendent Joe Ruddy, divisional commander for Central BCU, which covers Bridgend and the Vale, said: "The investment in Cowbridge ensures that we continue to maintain a future presence in the town."

"The newly-refurbished station brings both Bridgend and the Vale public protection units under one roof. As a result, a new public protection referral unit has been set up and located in the station."

Bryneithin could be health centre site

WHILE I have seen the outline plans for the Dinas Powys Health Centre development, I feel that it is well thought out.

The only problem, and an important one, is the proposed position at the top of the Murch on the old school site.

Many patients using the DP Health Centre suffer from severe mobility problems, and would, therefore, be unable to access the site if it is re-positioned at the top of the hill.

A council official has suggested taxis, but most patients are unable to afford this luxury and not all patients are car owners.

With the Bryneithin site being on a through-route, there would be easier access for all, if DP health centre were to re-locate to this site.

There is also a limited bus service, which I am sure could be improved. Let the council consider this option – before it is too late!

Jeff Webber,
Dinas Powys.

Scared by a horse in field

IAM writing in reply to the letter in the July 11 issue of The GEM, regarding the trampled dog in Beach Road fields, Llantwit Major.

A few weeks ago, I was visiting Llantwit Major and was strolling quietly through a field with my calm cocker spaniel beside me, when I noticed a large horse ahead and a smaller horse.

The large horse, despite being some distance away had a look about it that worried me, skittish might be the right word.

I immediately put my dog on a lead and paused as I was worried.

At that point, the horse gave us a wild look, before charging towards us at full gallop, and narrowly missed me and my dog (who was scared but did not bark).

Quite frankly, I was scared for my life, as the horse then turned behind me and looked as if it would take a second run at me.

I rapidly headed to the side of the field to get out of the way, in case he charged me again.

I had to climb over a gate with my dog, to exit the field as fast as I could. My view after this frightening event was that the horse had an unstable temperament and should not be in a field near a heavily-used footpath.

Lindi Rich,
Cardiff..

'Protective' road measures

THE Vale of Glamorgan Council placed a notice in The GEM that it has been deemed necessary to close the westerly access road to Cardiff Airport, in order to reduce the danger of injury or damage due to terrorism.

This protective action will be taken at 6.01pm on July 30 and may remain in effect for 18 months.

Fortunately, it seems terrorists are not interested in attacking the easterly access road from Port Road, so that will remain open.

Thank goodness for that!

Branwen Sloper,
Cowbridge.

Readers' Letters

IMPORTANT! We reserve the right to edit all letters. We do NOT accept anonymous mail. LETTERS AND EMAILS MUST INCLUDE FULL ADDRESS AND A CONTACT TELEPHONE NUMBER. AN EMAIL ADDRESS ALONE IS NOT SUFFICIENT!

We will (in certain circumstances) protect a writer's identity, if requested. Please keep your letters BRIEF and address them to: The Editor, DON JOHN, at Glamorgan GEM Ltd, Graig House, 53 Eastgate, Cowbridge CF71 7E OR email gemeditorial@tindlenews.co.uk

'Difficult for whom?'

"WE are in difficult financial circumstances" ... so writes Andrew RT Davies AM (Readers' Letters, The GEM, July 18), but I suspect that his "difficult" financial circumstances are not quite as desperate as the millions of those unemployed, job seeking, or living at subsistence level.

He blames 13 years of Labour government. Perhaps he has forgotten that this was NEW Labour, as invented by Mr Blair and his spin doctors, who were quite willing to carry on the Thatcherite ideology and fiscal policy.

After the EU... a golden future?

IWOULD like to respond to yet another anti-EU rant from DJ Radford (The GEM, July 18).

Of course, there is a majority for an in/out referendum and I suspect that if the vote was taken, there would be a majority wishing to leave.

This is not surprising, when UK voters are subjected to a constant stream of misleading bile in the majority of the UK press.

I constantly ask, and I challenge Mr Radford, or any other europhobe who feels like him, to describe what the future would look like if we left the EU.

Let us see their vision of Nirvana outside the EU; let them describe our future trading relationships with the rest of the world; let them say how they will maintain a trading relationship with the rest of the EU – when we have so publicly abused and insulted them.

At whatever level this debate is conducted, I've never yet seen anything in writing from europhobes which describes exactly what we would do after we left.

If anyone believes that leaving the largest trading structure in the world would be penalty-free, they are living in cloud-cuckoo land.

So please, all you europhobes, you have all the answers why we should leave.

Now let's have your detailed plans for the golden future that leaving Europe will bring. David Kennett, Barry.

WHO REAPS THE BENEFIT?

YOU have to admire MP Alun Cairns' front to lecture us on a 'something for nothing' culture.

The benefits cap will affect very few people in his constituency, so why does he devote his latest GEM column to it?

Could it be that he and the rest of his party are distracting attention from the real culprits of our economic woes – the bankers and financiers whose greed and recklessness has brought this country to its knees?

And, of course, who happen to be the same people who back his party?

Jeff Evans
Llantwit Major

Leading by example

INOTED the recent comments in The GEM by Alun Cairns, headlined 'It's time to end the something for nothing culture', where he states that the level of benefits has been capped at £26,000 a year.

Does Mr Cairns, like most of his fellow MPs, claim the £15 allowance if MPs sit after 7pm?

It's about time MPs started to lead by example, and practice what they preach to the rest of us. But don't hold your breath. D J Radford, Barry.

By the way, Mr Editor, please keep the readers' page open for ordinary folk, and let the politicians pay for their own advertisement space to peddle their party dogma and mud-slinging. They'll probably claim it on expenses, anyway!

Tony Robinson
Barry

EDITOR'S NOTE: The letters page aims to provide an open forum for readers' views and for mature debate from across the community.

'CLEAN UP THESE AREAS'

ARCHER Road children's playground and Barry Island station approach (Maslin Park side) are both in need of cleaning.

A council department needs to take responsibility for the station approach.

There is broken glass on the path, and copious amounts of dog faeces; also no waste bins on its entire length. In addition, two of the new floodlights are not working. I can't see the point in the Vale Council spending all that money on the area last year and then letting it go to ruin.

Mike Dunn, Barry

Cemetery care

THROUGH your columns, we would like to thank the Cowbridge with Llanblethian Town Council, Mr David Lewis and, more recently and especially, Mr Billy James, for the care and attention given to the upkeep and maintenance of the town cemetery.

The colourful tubs and hanging baskets of flowers at the entrance, further tubs inside, the borders and the flowers beneath the trees make the cemetery a beautiful place to visit or pass by.

We and many others have good reason to be grateful. Thank you, from the Killick family.

The cause of our problems?

IREAD with interest three letters in your July 18 edition, all roughly about the same subject.

I agree with two of them, Mr Andrew R T Davies and Mr Keith Lewis, but Mr G Smith of Llantwit Major, needs to recognise the cause of the problems we have today.

It is, of course, the political party that opened the doors to let everybody into this country, which was pretty full, anyway.

This is one reason why we have serious problems with the NHS, education, and housing shortages – and then we had a Chancellor of the Exchequer who sold most of our gold reserves for a pittance.

As for families using food banks and complaining about caps on benefits, how many have 42-inch flat screen televisions, Sky or Virgin digital boxes, mobile phones, Xboxes and video games?

In 1940, my mother was a war widow, but she managed to feed and clothe my sister and I, and kept a roof over our heads.

There was no family allowance then – if she asked for any help, she was means-tested and told to sell items deemed as luxuries. (Name and address supplied).

Neglected seat with a view...

THERE are some splendid views in the Vale of Glamorgan, and one relatively hidden gem is at Beauville Lane, at the end of Twyncyn, Dinas Powys.

Approximately halfway along, before entering the heavily-wooded section, on the left is a single public bench.

From this, and through the wire fence, one has a magnificent view over sloping fields to Barry, the Bristol Channel and the far English shore.

A pity, then, that struts on the bench are broken and it is in urgent need of TLC – Tender Loving Care.

After my making representations to the Council Leader, Coun Neil Moore, seats that had similarly fallen into decrepitude were repaired extremely quickly and repainted a dark green.

These two seats are on the triangle of land on the opposite side to Cadotson School and about a green triangle of open space. They are in Coun Moore's ward, and all credit to him, and his officers, for their quick action.

May we now have action to repair or replace this neglected seat?

Christopher Short

PARKS NEED ATTENTION

Iwholeheartedly agree with the article written by Sully mum Katherine Sweeney in The GEM last week.

I am not a young mum, but a grandmother and great-grandmother.

I take my great-grandchildren to both parks, but mainly the one by Elsworth Close and Conybeare.

I have been complaining for a long time about the state of the park – there are weeds in the little park.

When I have complained, I have been told that no-one knows who should be caring for the park.

As for the park by Jubilee Hall, seats on the swings have been broken. At the little park, a seat would be appreciated.

Maureen Poole, Sully

Camping on beach car park

MY husband and myself went for a walk on Llantwit Major beach and noticed several people camping on the overflow car park, even though there was a notice saying it was prohibited.

A couple of them were also lighting fires; this is also not allowed. They were camping, as one of the women was going to the cafe in her pyjamas and dressing gown.

The fire brigade came and spoke to these people, but once they had gone, the fires were lit again. On our way home, we saw the police going down there, but an hour later people were still camping. Why are they being allowed to ignore the rules?

We also saw a woman park up with her kids and dog and go down onto the beach, even though there's a notice saying dogs are not allowed on the beach until September.

HIGH TIDE TIMES (UNTIL AUGUST 1)

The high tides listed in this week's GEM are those in Porthcawl. It should be remembered that along the coast, high tide times will vary. For instance, in Barry, the high point will be 20 – 25 minutes later.

While The GEM makes every effort to check the accuracy of tide tables, we recommend that anyone putting out to sea, or walking in an area where they could be cut off, should check with a tide table specific to their location.

July has hotted up, in more ways than one!

ITHOUGHT it would be of interest for GEM readers to hear of some events that have been happening in and around Cowbridge during the first three weeks of July.

July 1 and 2 were council meetings dealing with leisure, planning, finance and Town Hall business which take place on the first and second Monday and Tuesday of each month except August. Members of the public are welcome to come and observe any of these meetings.

July 3 was an exciting day: I went to a presentation for year-7 pupils at Cowbridge Comprehensive School. It was good to see what talent there is among our young people.

This was accompanied by excellent music played by the students. The Deputy Mayor then took over from me for the presentations to years-9 and 10 as I left to meet the Duchess of Cornwall at the Physic Garden.

The Duchess was very impressed with the way in which the garden has progressed since her first visit five years ago.

There were two exhibitions at the garden, one of amazing photographs of flowers so detailed you could even see small insects nestling inside a flower and even a droplet of water.

The second exhibition was of paintings. I'm sure we have all seen wonderful flower paintings, but I can honestly say I have never seen better.

I hope there will be an opportunity for these to go on show so that we can all appreciate them.

July 5 saw a male voice choir at the leisure centre in aid of Prostate Cancer research with very talented youngsters as soloists.

With young people like this, the reputation of Wales as a Land of Song is in safe hands! Our own Cowbridge Male Voice Choir are having their annual concert in the Leisure Centre this Saturday (July 27) so if you want a treat, come along; I'm really looking forward to it.

July 8, A very hot day. I had been asked to sit for the community portrait drawing class at Old Hall from 10am until 1pm. I was very impressed by how hard they worked.

Next day was to celebrate 75 years of the RAF at St Athan. A church service was followed by a fly-past and then an amazing display of parachute jumping from 12,000 feet! I could not even see the plane: 12 parachutes floated down into view, making patterns in the air.

On Friday, I attended a leavers' service for the children leaving Ysgol Iolo Morgannwg to go on to their Welsh comprehensive. The children had made a very funny and clever bus journey of their time at school, from year one to year six.

At the end of the event, there were very few dry eyes among the children and families.

A busy weekend followed, with my sparkling strawberry tea on the Saturday. My thanks to Strawberry Fields,

COWBRIDGE MAYOR'S DIARY

by Coun
Gwen Baty

Filco, Waitrose, Tesco Cowbridge and the Spar, for donating the strawberries that helped to make this event a success.

Then followed the most important event of my year, namely Civic Sunday. (See page 4 for pictures).

A great deal of preparation goes into this event and for that I must thank our hard working staff – also the church members under Canon Belcher – for all their assistance.

The church was very welcoming and the flowers were beautiful. The Police Band were resplendent and the event closed with a fly-past from the Red Arrows. Only Cowbridge could provide that!

On Wednesday, I was invited to unveil a plaque outside our police station. I'm sure we are all disappointed to see it is no longer a general police station, but I am glad to see it being used as a centre to coordinate victim support, child abuse and monitoring registered sex offenders – all experts in the field of abuse working together.

On Saturday, I started an eight-mile walk for the brave staff of the Yorkshire Building Society, in aid of Marie Curie. I was invited to join them but (luckily) I had another engagement! That evening my consort and I were honoured to attend a concert in the Millennium Centre by the Cardiff and Vale of Glamorgan Youth Orchestra.

I have seen this orchestra perform on various occasions, going back to when I was a teacher, and I never cease to wonder at the skills of our local young people. It was an evening of pure joy!

Sunday was the Civic Service for the Mayor of Llantwit Major – it was a beautiful service in the very old and famous St Illtyd's church. A lovely end to a busy week.

Next week will be quieter, with only three engagements so far, and then a less busy August. You can see from this journal what a busy place Cowbridge is. Aren't we lucky to live in such a wonderful place!

I must finish by thanking my consort and my family for supporting me in these events, and also friends and fellow councillors. I will be holding my next coffee morning for Macmillan and Marie Curie on the first Saturday in September.

Look out for information regarding the future of our Fire Station.

Chilling scenes as Darkness Falls...

THE recent production by Cowbridge Amateur Dramatic Society (CADS) at the Market Theatre, Cowbridge, Darkness Falls, written by Jonathan Holloway, consisted of two chilling one-act plays.

The first, The Monkey's Paw, set in 1948, tells the story of grieving parents who lost their son in the Second World War.

They come into possession of a monkey's paw, which will grant them three wishes; unfortunately, each wish leads to increasingly horrific consequences.

The second was The Dark, set on New Year's Eve at the annual party, where Simian Black, a retired Cambridge don who, in reality, is Mephistopheles, entertains his favoured ex-students.

The two plays are cleverly linked as the end of a dramatisation of The Monkey's Paw is being announced on the radio at the start of The Dark.

My classical education was not wasted, as I noticed another connection: in The Dark, the main character is Simian Black and 'simia' is the Latin for 'monkey'.

Both plays show the consequences of allowing the deadly sins of greed and ambition to prevail.

The eerie atmosphere of both plays was well conveyed by the whole cast, who gave compelling performances.

The grief of the parents (Jeff Grist and Rosalie Maddy) was palpable. The set and costumes were excellent, with meticulous care taken to show the era of the plays.

Peter Knapp, clad in a silk smoking jacket, gave a convincing performance as Mephistopheles. He conveyed such a menacing presence that, when he snapped his fingers in the final scene, I jumped in my seat!

Caron Reidy is to be congratulated on her directorial debut. It was another great evening's entertainment provided by CADS – and remember, as the programme warns, 'Be careful what you wish for'.

Local pastor offers 'one-to-one' help to ease distress

A local pastor says he is available to talk confidentially with people who may need help due to personal issues they are struggling with.

Neil Harvey is the pastor of the Vale Church in Cowbridge and has experience in delivering drug and alcohol awareness sessions in comprehensive schools.

Neil told The GEM: "I am available to talk on a one-to-one basis about these issues and other situations that may be causing difficulties or distress in your life. "After overcoming a lot of extreme challenges in my life, and also helping others in similar situations, I have an understanding of these issues.

"Are you struggling with rejection or addiction? Are you confused about life? Do you just need to chat?"

"Perhaps you are young and feeling confused about life. Maybe you are a parent with a child you are worried about. People are free to call me, and any help is completely free."

Neil can be contacted on 07870 168 154.

Conversion

At a recent cafe style service at Vale Church, members heard the story of a pilot who was an atheist, but who became a believer, after having a dream that saved her life.

Meetings are held at the Duke of Wellington in the function room at 5pm.

Town's war memorial

The town council believes the memorial dates back until the early 1920s.

It pays tribute to local soldiers who gave their lives in the service of this country.

One Cowbridge resident, Jim Groves, mischievously went on Facebook, and claimed that due to financial constraints the statue was being removed because it had been sold for £7,000 to "an unknown buyer, possibly American".

A number of people fell for Jim's practical joke expressing outrage, but others saw that it was a light-hearted joke and said it had given them a chuckle.

ON July 10, Cowbridge U3A heard a talk by Romeo Bassini on the migration and settlement of Italians, mostly from northern Italy, to the south Wales area.

Escaping the poverty of rural life, these people trekked across northern Europe following the promise of a better life in the valleys and coastal towns, where for the most part eschewing work in the mines, they set up the cafes and ice cream parlours we know to this day.

Cowbridge Bridge news

RESULTS for Cowbridge and District (Llanblethian) Bridge Club are as follows:

Tuesday, July 16: First, Ann Miller and Judith Nunn, 65.00 per cent; second, Barbara Easterbrook and Colin Easterbrook, 63.33; third, Pam Higgs and Brenda Grove, 55.68.

THE ITALIAN CONNECTION!

The connections with Italy continue to this day, with Welsh/Italian people active in promoting extended family links and sports people representing Wales for example.

We were also treated to a medley of Italian and Welsh tunes, played on an accordion for good measure. A good time was had by all!

The AGM will be held at the town hall at 2pm on Wednesday, August 7 where the committee and officers will be elected, together with some entertainment and exhibitions of the various interest groups.

Beads, bangles and all that glitters at WI!

ON a beautiful, summer evening, Llanblethian WI met to discuss business, and also to be transported into the world of beads, bangles and all things that glitter.

Mrs Caroline Heyns has two shops one in Nottage, Porthcawl, and one in Bridgend – 'Wild about Beads'.

Caroline demonstrated how to make a simple bracelet and some very pretty earrings. She also brought along a super variety of jewellery she had made earlier. This was a very frivolous, light-hearted evening in tune with the weather. Caroline has a head full of magic and a very pleasant personality – she makes jewellery for special occasions.

If you would like to come and join us at any time, we meet on the second Thursday every month at 7.30pm in Llanblethian Church Hall.

Swimmers are rescued off Llantwit coast

A dramatic rescue of three swimmers – two women and a man – took place off the Llantwit Major coast on Sunday evening (July 21).

The swimmers were struggling in strong currents and were rescued following a rapidly-assembled rescue operation.

They had been part of a group of eight people, and got into difficulties in the water off Tresilian Bay at 6pm.

A member of the eight-strong party raised the alarm, contacting the Swansea Maritime Rescue Co-ordination Centre (MRCC).

Swansea MRCC issued a mayday relay broadcast requesting assistance from any vessels in the area.

The Llantwit Major Coastguard Rescue Team (LMCR) was scrambled and headed to the scene, joined by Porthcawl RNLI inshore lifeboat and the RAF search and rescue helicopter from RMB Chivenor.

A vessel in the area at the time also responded to the call, plucking the trio from the sea and getting them safely on board.

The Porthcawl lifeboat arrived and took the three swimmers ashore. No one required any medical attention.

Steve Jones, rescue co-ordination centre manager at Swansea MRCC, advised:

"If you are going for a swim, remember that even though the sea may look calm on the surface, there is the danger of strong currents underneath."

"Always check tide times before you walk along the foreshore and away from beach access points so that you can avoid being cut off by the incoming tide."

"The key thing to remember is that if you see someone in difficulty, you should call 999 immediately and ask for the coastguard."

Neil's ride from Paris to Rome for Sarcoma UK

A Rhosse man has cycled all the way from Paris to Rome – to raise funds for Sarcoma UK, writes TIM CHAPMAN.

Neil John (36) who works as the senior stage technician at St David's Hall, was diagnosed with fibrosarcoma in August 2009.

He underwent a successful operation and this year decided to support other people who are suffering from the disease by making the marathon cycle ride.

At the time of his diagnosis four years ago, Neil was fearful he would not be able to hold his daughter Elinor, who was born in January 2010.

Fortunately, those fears were unfounded and he is looking forward to getting the 'all clear' five years after the operation.

Neil's wife Jo told The GEM: "Neil and the team of cyclists made it to the Colosseum in Rome finishing together. They cycled through the full range of weather conditions, including snow, thunderstorms, and hail. Neil also encountered some friendly locals who jested he was too fat to go up the mountains!"

"He soon showed them. In total the group cycled just over 1,100 miles in 11 days, a few extra miles than planned as they had to do some re-routing due to some road closures."

Jo added: "We'd like to say a big thank you to all of you at the GEM for your continued support of Neil and his crazy rides, and to the readers – we even got a letter from our local MP who must have seen the original story in The GEM."

"The grand total we raised for Sarcoma UK was £1,534.50 which will be boosted up by gift aid."

Sarcomas are rare cancers that develop in the supporting or connective tissues of the body such as muscle, bone, nerves, cartilage, blood vessels or fat.

Llantwit bowls 'mixed fours'

SATURDAY was a day with beautiful weather and the first team captain Charles Hiscock arranged a tournament for mixed fours.

It was very competitive and took a long time, but was thoroughly enjoyable to watch with some fine bowling.

The winning rink was Ritchard George, Anne Watts, Mick Aplin and Eric Hacker. The runners-up were Edna Hardie, Dave Post, Mike Harmon and Nick Parry.

Afterwards there were refreshments in the club. On offer was curry prepared by Pat Aston and a barbeque run by Fred and Peggy Pike.

The social members enjoyed themselves and the whole afternoon was a day to remember.

Charles and his band of helpers did very well to ensure that things went according to plan. WE

Southerndown wall gets a refurbishment

A TOTAL of almost £70,000 is to be spent on restoring a Vale beauty spot.

The historic walled gardens at Dunraven Park in Southerndown will benefit from a £69,541.36 restoration grant from the Vale Council's rural regeneration partnership, Creative Rural Communities, under the 'Pride in Our Heritage' programme.

A council spokesperson said: "The area has an intriguing history, originally the site of an iron age hill fort and later dominated by a Gothic mansion, with its parkland, plantations and walled garden. The house was demolished in 1962."

The gardens are open every day of the year and entry is free, but large parts of the historic perimeter walls have fallen into disrepair and, without investment, there is a concern that public access to the gardens could be limited.

In total, £99,000 is to be spent, with funding contributions from Dunraven Estate and from the Friends of the Glamorgan Heritage Coast, as well as an element of staff time used as match funding.

The project will take place throughout the summer and early autumn. The gardens will remain open throughout this period and visitors this summer will be able to watch the restoration in progress.

Coun Gwyn John, the cabinet member for leisure, parks, culture and sports development, said: "The Heritage Coast Project has safeguarded this beautiful area and educated thousands of children about nature for decades."

"Now this grant and the support of the Friends group are bringing about a huge improvement."

Coun Lis Burnett, the cabinet member for regeneration, innovation, planning and transportation, said: "The Glamorgan Heritage Coast is an invaluable tourism asset and the improved gardens will be the jewel in the crown."

The Creative Rural Communities team looks forward to helping groups and individuals develop small projects such as reviving historic events and activities, or creating small exhibitions which celebrate the heritage of the rural Vale.

Turbine threat

RESIDENTS living in close proximity to the proposed installation of a wind turbine on St Mary Hill, are extremely concerned that the tranquility will be lost.

The structure would be 77 metres high with access track, hard standing substation, underground cabling and a temporary construction compound.

Is this the beginning of further development? Will St Mary Hill become over-populated by these monstrosities?

Those who have been associated with the area for a very long time may wonder, where next?

Saron service

A SERVICE will be held in Saron Chapel, Treoes, on Sunday, July 28 at 3pm and everyone wishing to attend will be made welcome.

OBITUARY

Arthur Lewis Thomas,

October 2, 1928

– July 6, 2013

FRIENDS, neighbours and former Llangan community councillors, joined the family at the funeral of Arthur Lewis Thomas, which took place at the Mid Glamorgan Crematorium on July 16.

Following their marriage at St Canna's, Llangan in 1959, Arthur and his beloved wife, Jean, made their home in Treoes – where Arthur was destined to become a leading light in village life.

In 1967, he was involved in the instigation of the Treoes carnival, which raised funds to purchase materials for the building of the Treoes and St Mary Hill community halls.

St Canna's Llangan, St Mary Hill church, and Treoes chapel also received financial help.

A keen supporter of Saron chapel, Arthur, with his fine singing voice, would give a solo performance at the Christmas concert there.

Voted onto Llangan community council in 1982, he served the local community as an ordinary councillor and as council chairman.

When problems needed sorting out, Arthur would not dilly-dally, but would roll up his sleeves and get on with the task.

In 1983, Arthur, with the collaboration of Jean and enthusiastic villagers, 'The Young at Heart Club' was formed – a lasting memorial to Arthur.

Our thoughts are with Jean at this unhappy time and with the family, who have been so supportive to her.

Donations in memory of Arthur may be made to the British Heart Foundation, 23, Heol-y-Groes, Litchard Higher, Bridgend CF31 10X.

Members enjoy a glass Carnival!

THE monthly meeting of the St Hilary WI took place on July 9, in its usual venue of the village hall.

The guest speaker was Mrs Pam Mills with a talk entitled 'Carnival Glass'. She has been a collector for over 20 years and has a prestigious collection.

Most of the Carnival glass was produced in the USA, but has been found in Europe and even Australia. Pam brought a wide range of objects from her collection and she gave an interesting history of their origins, assisted by her 11-year-old granddaughter, Ellie, who gave a confident and articulate description of three favourites from her own collection.

After supper, the meeting continued with business. Everyone who attended the Margam garden party on and the link meeting in St Fagans village hall agreed that both had been a great success.

The 2013 AGM of the National Federation of Women's Institutes was held in the Motorpoint Arena in Cardiff.

Judy Roberts from Pendoylan WI was our representative and her comprehensive report was read by Betty Thomas, St Hilary's president.

It was also agreed that the trip to visit our county link WI in Oxwich/Penrice on the Gower was great fun, even if the weather was rather a let down.

As there is no meeting in August, it was agreed that those who could make it would meet or lunch at The Fox and Hounds in Llancafarn, and then proceed to the church to view the wall paintings that have been discovered there. A meeting will be held on September 10 at 7pm in

ALLOTMENTS OPENING BRINGS TREOES VILLAGERS TOGETHER

A FOUR-YEAR project in Treoes came to fruition recently – when the village's community allotments were officially opened.

A disused tennis court and common land is now the 'Treoes Community Allotments' – and it came about through the efforts of the villagers, with the support of the Community Foodie project and Creative Rural Communities.

The event co-ordinator, Julia Lloyd, said: "Treoes Community Allotments has enhanced community spirit."

"It has also been called 'Treoes Reunited' due to the support from plot holders and locals who have assisted with compost, water and tidying communal areas."

"The open day was celebration of the wealth of nature and community spirit this allotment has captured."

"Among others, our thanks go to community councillors, James Mordecai, Mari Major, Liz Matthews and Nigel Blethyn, and Rob McGhee of Community Foodie."

On the official opening day, Terry Walton, who extols the virtues of allotments on Radio-2's Jeremy Vine Show, was a special guest. Vale AM

Jane Hutt AM also attended.

Nadia De-Longhi, a member of the allotments committee, said: "It was a great community event."

Sarah Simpson said: "I was surprised to see what had been achieved in the short time of the open day."

Julia Lloyd said: "The plot holders could relate to a quote from Terry Walton's book My Life on a Allotment Hillsides: "...To me, it's not just a garden but a whole way of life with every visit a social occasion."

"To me, the allotment is a gym that helps keep me fit, it's my sunbed because it keeps me tanned, my stress counsellor because it's my way of relieving tension, and my means of relaxation in the open air."

Also thanked for their contributions were: Cross Farm Nursery, for a plant stall; local Brownies for creating an allotment sign; The Star (Treoes), Laleston Inn and the Cakerie for donating raffle prizes.

The project received funding through the Rural Development Plan for Wales 2007-2013, funded by the Welsh Government and the European Agricultural fund for Rural Development, via Creative Rural Communities.

Terry Walton was presented with a spade by the local Brownies, as a thank you for attending the event.

Heartfelt tributes to Vale victims, and an old friend

IT is with regret that I have to begin this column by referring to the recent tragic events that have occurred over the last month, including the tragic drowning of young Hollie McClymont, and also those who have died as a result of road traffic accidents.

I send my sincere condolences to the families and friends of those who are no longer with us.

I think it would also be pertinent to refer to the very hot weather that we have been experiencing and ask everyone to be vigilant and keep a watchful eye on the young and old within our community – particularly babies, the frail elderly and those who suffer from chest conditions; and ensure that no-one becomes dehydrated in the extreme conditions.

I think we all become concerned during the winter months, but this hot weather can have major consequences, too.

Well done!

On a positive note, I would like to congratulate Oak Field School in Gibbonsdown, on their tremendous efforts in being taken out of Estyn special measures.

They have gone from strength-to-strength and have appointed a new head and deputy head, and we look forward to continuing to work with them.

Town campaign

Previously, I commented on the issues facing Barry Town FC supporters' efforts to get their newly-formed Barry Town United AFC team registered with the Football Association for Wales (FAW).

It is regrettable that the FAW have refused them entry into the Welsh League, thereby stopping league football being played at Jenner Park. I know the supporters are considering taking legal action against the FAW and I wish them success.

Despite this setback, the new team is scheduled to play a Cardiff City Football team this Saturday, July 27 at Jenner Park, and are hoping for a good turnout.

They intend making it a fun family day and are looking to include some extra facilities on the day and help fund-raise for their campaign. I hope they have a great game and a successful family day.

Fitting

I recently had the greatest pleasure of being part of the opening of the newly-rebuilt community centre in the Buttrills ward which has been fittingly dedicated to the late Buttrills councillor, Margaret Alexander and

by Coun
NEIL MOORE
Leader of the Vale of Glamorgan
Council

named the 'Margaret Alexander Community Centre'.

Margaret and I were very good friends, and we worked together as a team for many years, particularly when she was the last Labour Leader of the council and I was her deputy, from December 2006 until May 2008.

Margaret was a stalwart and always worked hard for the council, and particularly for her ward, Buttrills. It was through her tenacity, insistence and determination that the new community centre was rebuilt, after the old one was declared unsafe and had to be demolished.

The centre is a fitting memory to my old friend, who is missed so very much by so many people.

I would, therefore, like to thank the community centre's committee for making this decision, and also thank them for inviting me to open the new centre. I wish them much success for the future.

Consultation

Work at the council also continues and as a cabinet, we will begin a consultation in September on the proposal to create a co-educational secondary school in Barry by combining the current single sex Bryn Hafren and Barry comprehensive schools into a single mixed-sex school on the two sites.

We believe this is the correct solution and will be consistent with other secondary schools in the county, but want to know your views before taking a decision.

This follows on from the decision to bring forward the development of Llantwit Major secondary school by two years, and to build it in one phase. It is intended that the work will commence in spring of 2015.

Audacity!

I WOULD like to end this column by once again decrying the comments of our local MP, who seems to be happy to comment on council and Welsh Government issues, but declines to comment on the actions being taken by his own Con/Dem Westminster Government – who have imposed, and continue to impose – such unacceptable welfare reforms on the most vulnerable in our communities.

This is adding to the burden on local government, although he is not prepared to accept that it is 'his' Westminster Government that has made these savage cuts to the public sector and reduced the grants available to the Welsh Government.

He also has the audacity to blame the Welsh Government for not allocating the Vale Council enough money, when at Local Government Reorganisation in 1994, it was the Conservative Government and Welsh Minister of the day that decided how much money should be allocated to the Vale when South Glamorgan was disbanded. Once again, our MP makes comments that are wildly inaccurate. I think he should start to deal with Westminster issues, burden the blame for his Government's action, and leave the Vale Council to do its job in looking after the people of the Vale, which is clearly not on his agenda.

I wish everyone an enjoyable but safe time in the coming month and hope the weather allows all of us to enjoy the summer break.

Look out for all the good summer activities that the council is putting on at Barry Island and around the Vale.

Information on these events can be found in the local press and on our website www.vale-of-glamorgan.gov.uk.

'Will one Vale fire engine be enough?' asks councillor

A VALE councillor has hit out at Fire Service plans for the area.

Independent councillor Richard Bertin is "not happy" with the proposals for Barry and says he will be taking the matter up with both Fire Service and union officials.

South Wales Fire and Rescue Service has four stations in the Vale – at Barry and Penarth, manned 24 hours a day; Cowbridge, which is crewed during the day by fire-fighters and on-call during the evening; and Llantwit Major, crewed by fire-fighters from home or work.

Coun Bertin said: "It is understood that the average time to get from a fire station to an address in the Vale, is currently 6.5 minutes.

"There are about 54,000 homes and 5,500 miles of road, including part of the M4, serving the Vale," he pointed out. "Two of the stations out of four to be affected by the proposals are in Barry and Cowbridge. Proposal A is suggesting that Cowbridge will have on call fire-fighters; and Proposal B is suggesting only having one fire engine, instead of two based in Barry, with five full-time fire-fighters.

"The Fire and Rescue Service is claiming it has too many full-time fire-fighters in the Vale, despite the fact that the number of people living in the county is set to go from 127,000 to 137,000 in the next 10 years."

Coun Bertin, who represents Court ward in Barry, added: "I am really concerned about the proposals for the Vale of Glamorgan. Will just one fire engine, based in Barry, be enough to cope in an emergency?"

He urged the public to have their say by emailing haveyoursay@south-wales-fire.gov

'Cut number of houses in LDP' – says councillor

A Plaid Cymru councillor has called on the Vale Council to follow Cardiff's lead – and cut the number of houses to be built under the controversial 15-year Local Development Plan (LDP).

The Vale Council rejected the draft LDP in January and a revised version is expected to be published later this year, but Plaid Cymru councillor Ian Johnson said that the most important failing of the LDP was that it over-estimated the Vale's housing need.

After protests in Cardiff about LDP proposals there, the target was cut by more than 4,000 houses.

Coun Johnson says that the Vale's revised LDP should also look for a cut because census figures show that population growth in the Vale has been lower than predicted.

He explained: "Plaid Cymru voted against the draft LDP in January because the proposals were to build more houses than were necessary."

"It was a case of leading the market rather than meeting local need, which is primarily for smaller and more affordable housing."

"There was a gap of almost 40 per cent in the population increase in the estimates used for drawing up the LDP and those of the 2011 census.

"If we follow this through then we could end up building thousands of houses of the wrong type and in the wrong place."

"It is very important that we get this right in the Vale because of the type of services that we need to provide and the transport and infrastructure issues associated with population increase."

Coun Johnson said that in Barry, planning permission had been given for almost all of the major developments in the original LDP – the Quays on the Waterfront, White Farm, Golwg y Coed at the top of Pencoedre Village and on Barry Island Pleasure Park.

He said: "Weycock Cross is practically the only part of the LDP in Barry for which permission has not yet been given."

"In addition to that, we have so-called 'wind-fall' sites which were unexpected, such as the Magistrates Court and new housing on Merthyr Street, as well as turning offices into housing on Holton Road."

"The new LDP must re-assess the numbers of houses required in the Vale, as well as making a clear case that unnecessary plots of land can be removed from the new LDP without penalty."

"If the new LDP just rubber-stamps the housing number and land choices of the original version, then it will have been a waste of our time and money," Coun Johnson added.

Council links up with Stonewall to counter homophobic bullying in schools

THE Vale Council has joined up with Stonewall Cymru to tackle homophobic bullying in schools.

The council has joined the charity's 'Education Champions' programme, which offers staff in Vale schools access to specialist support and advice on how to address homophobic bullying in primary and secondary schools.

An initial training session for schools is planned for October. Schools who are interested in developing this work further can join Stonewall's School Champions programme.

The cabinet member for children's services, Coun Chris Elmore, said: "Through the Vale's collaboration with Stonewall Cymru, schools will be supported in their work to reduce homophobic bullying."

"I want to send a clear message to all young people across the Vale that if they feel they are subject to homophobic, or any other form of bullying, the council is doing all it can to stop the bullying and provide support to victims."

"By celebrating difference and challenging prejudice, work to promote anti-bullying can make classrooms happier and more welcoming places to learn."

Bryneithin consultation

THE Vale Council is inviting residents to air their views on the future of the Bryneithin site, as part of a public consultation.

The council's priority is to identify a future use for the site that continues to help meet the needs of older people in the Vale.

The Bryneithin working group has identified what are believed to be the most viable options for the site – either a residential development for older people, or a care facility for older people.

However, while these options appear to be the most viable, the council welcomes residents' ideas and wishes to gain as many suggestions for the future of the site as possible to assist in meeting the needs of older people in the Vale.

Two questions are being asked during the consultation:

1. What are your views on the Vale Council's plan to ensure the site will continue to help meet the needs of older people living in the Vale?

2. How do you feel the site could be used to meet the needs of older people living in the Vale?

The consultation period will last until September 13.

Residents can respond online at www.valeofglamorgan.gov.uk/consultation, via the CIV contact centre or by writing to: Bryneithin Consultation, Corporate and Customer Services, Vale of Glamorgan Council, FREEPOST SWC2936, Barry, CF63 4GZ.

Demand for action on nuisance calls - MP

THE Vale's Conservative MP, Alun Cairns and Edinburgh's Liberal Democrat MP, Mike Crockart, recently launched the all-party parliamentary group (APPG) on nuisance calls.

The Vale MP wants "more rigorous action" taken against commercial organisations who make nuisance calls and send unsolicited texts.

During a debate in Parliament in March, he highlighted one constituent who regularly received more than a dozen nuisance calls a day. He said he has also prepared legislation to prevent any commercial organisation from withholding their number.

The two MPs announced the all-party group's intention to hold an inquiry into how best to deal with the worst excesses of the unsolicited marketing industry.

Mr Cairns said: "This is a significant issue, particularly for those who are at home during the day, many of whom are pensioners. It is not unusual for some to receive a dozen or more calls a day."

"The current process to complain is complicated and the laws are confusing. I have a 10-minute Rule Bill in November to force all non-domestic callers to display their number."

"This will help empower people to decide whether to answer the phone or not and to complain about them if necessary."

Cowbridge is all set to celebrate a decade of food and drink in style!

ONE of Wales' most popular food and drink festivals is preparing to mark its 10th anniversary in real style - with a host of guaranteed crowd pleasers added to the popular format.

Launched in 2004, the award-winning Cowbridge Food and Drink Festival takes place this year on October 26-27 and is gearing up to be the best event yet.

Thousands of food and drink lovers flock to the festival every year to sample some of the best in Welsh produce, as well as exotic fare from further afield.

High profile sponsors have been confirmed in the form of HSBC and Waitrose and this year's brand new wristband ticket system will provide benefits to both town traders and festival goers alike, as shops and bars are encouraged to offer discounts or added extras to those wearing them to draw them into their own establishments.

The ever-popular Champagne marquee will this year move to the bigger Vale Forge site while the Kids' Zone promises to offer everything a little one could possibly want from a fun day out - all under one roof at Fun Foundations Nursery.

Outdoor activity to entertain the youngsters will also include a Scarecrow Trail around the town - courtesy of sponsorship from Liqueur Laces on Penny Lane.

Craft lovers will enjoy browsing the stalls of the craft fayre in the town hall and extra activities are also planned in the Bear Hotel.

The Fringe and Entertainment Zone will come together in The Old Hall Gardens, offering entertainment for all the family with musical performances, workshops, discussions and extra stalls to browse.

Run by a volunteer committee, the festival has grown in size from a small one day event to a weekend of festivities involving the whole town, while still retaining its signature intimate atmosphere.

Speaking about the 2013 Cowbridge Food and Drink Festival, festival manager Polly Wilson said: "More than 12,000 visitors joined us last year and exhibitors considered Cowbridge the Best Festival of its size in Wales - in our tenth year, we're planning even bigger and better things!

"We've changed and developed several elements of the festival this year that we're sure will prove a hit with our visitors.

Combining The Food Fringe with the Entertainment Zone for example is an exciting prospect, and we'll be working closely with HubCowbridge in the run up to the event to co-ordinate.

"As stalls at the main site always sell out early, this will be a great opportunity for additional food-related businesses to take part and also offers an affordable platform for smaller, local producers to showcase their products - enhancing both visitor and local residents' experience of the festival, which can only be a good thing," Polly added.

Family pay tribute to Miskin road victim

THE family of a 24-year-old pedestrian, who died in a road accident early on Saturday in Miskin, Dafydd Kidner, have paid a heartfelt tribute.

He was from the village of Gilfach Goch and had a three-year-old son. He was employed as a railman, maintaining tracks throughout south Wales and the west of England.

His parents Alan and Keryl, said: "Dav was a wonderful father, son, partner, grandson, brother, brother-in-law, nephew, uncle and friend.

"It is an understatement to say his death has completely devastated everybody who knew him. Dav was a hard working, much loved young man taken from us in the prime of his life.

ment to say his death has completely devastated everybody who knew him. Dav was a hard working, much loved young man taken from us in the prime of his life.

"It is so tragic, he had everything to live for. We were and always will be so proud of our son."

They also expressed their thanks for all the support and love they have received from family and friends at this difficult time.

South Wales Police are continuing to appeal for information about the incident, which occurred at around 1.30am on Saturday, July 20 on the A4119 at Miskin, just north of its junction to School Road.

The woman driver of the red Ford Focus involved in the collision has been helping police with their enquiries.

Anyone with information about the incident, should call 101, or Crimestoppers (anonymously) on 0800 555 111.

EyePAT ANTI-BULLYING CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED AT THE SENEDD...

AN anti-bullying campaign has been launched at the Senedd by EyePAT CIC.

Face-to-face and cyber bullies now target nearly half of schoolchildren and a third of working adults, and the Happy Kids and Happy People's programme is about getting to the root cause of this social problem.

As Penny Steinhauer, EyePAT's Training Director, explained, there are basically four types of bully –

Accidental, Opportunistic,

Substance Abuse and Chronic. 'Happy Kids and Happy People Don't Bully' is a project specifically designed to work with the chronic bully.

During a five-minute exercise, the audience, who included many headteachers, mental health charities, businesses, children's charities, unions, health boards and youth offending teams, came up with 121 reasons why some people bully.

They listed "low self-esteem", "need to control",

"jealousy", "self defence", "being abused", "insecurity, feeling threatened", "peer behaviour" and "pressurised".

These words were transferred onto bricks to create a powerful visual impact.

Instead of seeing an 'in-control' and 'powerful bully', the audience saw sad people weighed down by their problems and clearly in need of support and help.

ST RICHARD GWYN PUPILS PUT LANGUAGE SKILLS TO GOOD USE!

IN a collaboration between St Teilo's School, Cardiff Arts Centre, and the Cardiff University Confucius Institute, year-12 pupils enjoyed three days of language learning and cultural activities – as part of their Welsh Baccalaureate (WBQ) language module.

All pupils had a day of language study in Mandarin Chinese, Spanish or Italian. They were able to put their language skills into action in a range of activities at Chapter Arts Centre, Cardiff.

These included creative arts, film studies, dance and movement, Tai Chi and food tasting.

TEAM ENTERPRISE

Congratulations to year-12 pupils Daniel Manton and Joe Morgan, who won this year's WBQ Team Enterprise competition.

Their novel idea for self-cleaning windows along with their imaginative presentation and well-prepared business plan made them worthy winners against stiff competition.

Judges commented on the very high quality of presentations this year, and the great amount of effort shown by pupils.

Graham's cycle challenge sets bar high!

EVERY year, The GEM receives reports of local people taking on charity challenges – and the bar is constantly being raised as people look for something that will stand out.

So, when we carried a report recently of Llancarfan's Graham Brain, and his marathon cycling tour of Britain, it took a while for the scale of his achievement to sink in.

After all, cycling challenges are quite common, and tend to attract fairly fit men and women – often keen cyclists who are at home on a bike.

You might not be Chris Froome or Sir Bradley Wiggins, but it is no place for Norm from Cheers!

So, just what possessed a 60-year-old man – whose weight had crept up past the 21 stone mark – to contemplate a John O'Groats to Land's End cycle.

Was Graham a keen cyclist in his past? No.

In fact, his experience on two wheels was on a motor bike, and that ended in a nasty crash at the age of 17, that left him with a broken ankle – and limited movement in the joint to this day.

However, he didn't

settle for a straight line between those two points. He looked for other places he could aim for. He chose the easternmost point, the westernmost, the furthest from the sea, and even the highest point!

In the end, he criss-crossed the UK so much that the ride totalled more than 1,500 miles and raised more than £8,000 for the road safety charity Brake.

It was two years in the planning so Graham was 62 when he set out to cycle 50 miles every day, over 35 days, starting from Dunnet Head, via John O'Groats and to Land's End – with a multitude of diversions.

Graham told The GEM: "I started my training on an exercise bike, and it was September 2012 before I took a bike out on the road.

"Even then, the weather was so bad over the winter and spring that I really didn't do that much out of doors."

However, he must have worked hard on that exercise bike, because by the starting date, he had reduced his weight to 17 stone – a great improvement but still not the ideal cycling build! Nevertheless, it was all down to Graham when he started in the far north of Scotland. Road Safety Support Limited, a not profit organisation, who work with ACPO, provided a support vehicle throughout the five weeks of the challenge but Graham had to do all the pedalling!

He told The GEM: "In many ways Scotland was the best – and the worst.

There were beautiful days riding through wonderful scenery, but it also included my two worst days."

This was due to Graham's determination to reach the highest point in Britain – Ben Nevis of course. It was not bike terrain, so he had to climb to the top, which was tiring enough, but he had an unexpected problem coming down!

He said: "My old ankle injury meant that it was really painful coming down. The ankle didn't flex for walking downhill – and I really struggled on that stretch."

Worse was to come on the following day, because he had to cycle from Fort William, at sea level, up Glen Coe

ABOVE: Graham was joined by family members, including grandchildren, for the final stretch to Land's End.

RIGHT: relaxing home in Llancarfan after his 35-day cycling effort.

and across Rannoch Moor, including 2,493ft of climbing.

He said: "After 10.5 hours the previous day on 'The Ben', I could hardly stand up and the following morning I had to stand on a step just to get onto my cycle.

"It was very tough, especially when you're totally exhausted at the start of a 50-mile day."

There were other tough times too, and in the final week of his ride, through Cornwall, general wear and tear and an "endless amount of hills" were a real problem.

Keeping Graham going through the tough times was his determination to help his charity, BRAKE.

He said: "Road safety charities don't get much publicity, and after hearing what wonderful work BRAKE does in promoting road safety and in the support of victims and relatives of victims of road collisions, they seemed to me to be an obvious choice."

The trip left Graham with a great deal of sympathy for cyclists. He said: "I tried to avoid causing any congestion behind me by using the cycle paths/lanes if available.

"In saying that though, on some of the paths it was impossible to cycle, due to the poorly maintained surface or vegetation growing over it and I had to resort to getting back onto the carriageway.

"Some cycle paths I came across were ridiculous, I would leave the carriageway and within less than 100 yards would be confronted with an 'End of Cycle Route' sign – which meant having to rejoin the carriageway again.

"I obeyed all the traffic signals I came to, unlike a lot of other cyclists I saw, just riding through a red light into the junction. It's no wonder that cyclists get a bad reputation."

He continued: "The vast majority of motor vehicles made allowances for me on my cycle but a small percentage didn't.

"In some cases I felt that I could have cleaned their nearside window with my elbow as they passed, and on a few occasions I had to brake hard as they came around me, only to turn left directly in front of me!

"Other road users need to understand that a strong gusty side wind, while not affecting a motor car, will have quite an effect on a cyclist, just as a small pothole could easily dismount a cyclist but not be felt in a car.

"It's impossible to just cycle a straight line because of these."

However, the experience has left Graham with an appreciation of the joys of cycling, and he is planning to continue taking leisurely rides around the vale – as soon as his knee, which played up towards the end of the five weeks, is fully recovered.

Graham's enthusiasm for road safety stems from working for Serco for 24 years, and he strongly believes that the company's main product makes a huge difference to road safety.

That product – and at this point there is a chance that one or two readers may turn against Graham – is speed cameras!

It's 'moth ado about nothing' on wildlife watch

ON Friday, July 26, the Wildlife Trust of South and West Wales (WTSWW), along with experts from Butterfly Conservation and the Glamorgan Moth Group, will be running a moth trapping evening at WTSWW's Cwm Colhuw reserve near Llantwit Major.

Moths are a rather under-appreciated group, particularly compared to their close relations, the butterflies. The UK has about 60 butterfly species, compared to more than 2,400 moths, and many of the moths are at least as spectacular in appearance as butterflies.

During the moth trapping event, there will be a number of powerful light traps running on the reserve and we will be identifying the species that come to visit them.

Experts will be on hand to talk about this fascinating group of insects and open your eyes to the beautiful nocturnal creatures that exist in the countryside around us.

The event will run from 9pm until approximately 1am and is free, but booking is essential as the date may change if the weather forecast is unsuitable.

Anyone is welcome to go along and there is no obligation to stay until the end but please contact WTSWW's Conservation Officer at v.matthews@welsh-wildlife.org in order to book a place.

Local historian publishes his second novel

Dr Jonathan Hicks, headteacher of St Cyres School, Penarth, and well-known to GEM readers as a local historian, has published his second novel.

Born in Barry, Dr Hicks received much acclaim for his first novel in the Thomas Oscendale series.

Set during the third year of the First World War, his debut The Dead of Mametz followed Captain Thomas Oscendale's efforts to arrest a murderer amongst the soldiers of the Welsh Division, who were poised to begin their assault on the German-held Mametz Wood.

Dr Hicks' sequel, Demons Walk Among Us, finds Thomas Oscendale fresh from the horrors of war on the Western Front and on leave in the coastal town of Barry, where he is drawn into the investigation of the savage murder of a war widow.

The novel paints a vivid picture of life in the trenches, as well as life in the industrial towns of south Wales during the Great War.

"Demons Walk Among Us is set one year on from the first novel in the series," explained Dr Hicks.

"As 2014 marks 100 years since the outbreak of the First World War, there has been a burgeoning of interest in its history and I truly believe that a novel focused around a central character set in this time period will attract widespread interest. Crime novels set in the Great War are something of a rarity."

As well as a writer of fiction, Dr Hicks is also the author of four books on military history.

He won the Victorian Military Society's top award for an article from his first book, A Solemn Mockery in 2006, and was awarded the Western Front Association Shield in 2010 for an illustrated account of his hometown's military past, Barry and the Great War.

Out and About with The GEM

World's End a fitting finale to comic trilogy

WHEN Edgar Wright and Simon Pegg, whose biggest claim to fame was cult sitcom Spaced, released their debut film, Shaun of the Dead, in 2004, nobody could have predicted the huge success the film would generate, with Pegg going on to provide comedic support in the likes of Mission: Impossible 3 and Star Trek, while Wright became a Hollywood director with Scott Pilgrim vs The World.

The second part of their 'Cornetto' trilogy was 2008's Hot Fuzz, bringing them even greater acclaim and success, and the pair close out the trilogy with The World's End.

Pegg plays Gary King, who wants to reunite his old gang of friends (Nick Frost, Martin Freeman, Paddy Considine and Eddie Marsan) to complete the 'Golden Mile' pub crawl in their old home town, something that they had failed to do in their youth.

However, as old tensions bubble to the surface, the feeling that something isn't quite right in the town escalates dramatically, as the five try to reach their final destination – the aptly-named World's End...

Given the amount of success Simon Pegg and Edgar Wright have achieved since Shaun of the Dead, you would have thought they would have been far too busy to knock out another homegrown comedy effort, and, if they could find the time to, the ensuing film would no doubt be compromised by their outside, and far more lucrative interests.

However, the pair have never been ones to shy away from giving their fans what they want, and The World's End makes a fitting finale to their trilogy, the film packed with laughs but with a mature outlook that reflects on youth mispent and how we change, but coupled to an Invasion of the Bodysnatchers-esque plot that doesn't prove to be a step too far.

Their previous films have always matched high-concept with the grounded, and The World's End hits a similar vein, the science fiction backdrop playing a supporting role to the themes of friendship – and how life doesn't always give you everything you wanted or hoped.

In the lead, Pegg hits the same comedy notes you would expect, but matches the depth that his and Wright's script aims for, a performance highly comedic but always hinting at the sadness lurking below.

His sidekick, Nick Frost, has always played the buffoon to Pegg's straighter character, but here the roles are reversed (for the first hour at least). It makes for a refreshing change of pace seeing the dynamic switch, while the likes of Martin Freeman, Paddy Considine and Eddie Marsan are pitch-perfect alongside them.

With old faces from their previous films and Spaced popping up, it's easy to sense this is a line being drawn by the pair, and it is a fine note to go out on, if that is the case – with Wright's direction, all verve, fast-cuts and clever visual tics – brimming with invention yet showing a degree of restraint.

There is nothing here that doesn't hit the spot if you're a fan of the pair's work, but those who are not won't be converted by the end credits, while even their most ardent admirers may be a little disappointed at the way the climax peters out rather than ends with a bang.

However, The World's End is a likeable, funny film that makes for an entertaining experience.

VERDICT: Simon Pegg and Edgar Wright's 'Cornetto' trilogy is 'topped' off nicely (I couldn't resist) with The World's End, a funny film that manages to balance laughter with pathos and body-snatching! With a well-tuned cast, and Wright's strong direction, the film is well worth a watch. Recommended.

SEE THIS IF YOU LIKED: Paul (2011), Shaun of the Dead (2004).

Welsh Rock Choir members join the 'Rockies' at O2 Arena!

ROCKING LONDON!

ROCK Choir members from Cardiff, Penarth, Bridgend, Cowbridge, Pontyclun and Neath, enjoyed their biggest 'gig' yet, when they joined more than 12,000 fellow 'Rockies' at London's O2 Arena.

Rock Choir is the UK's largest and most popular contemporary choir, with more than 16,000 members in over 250 communities.

Founder and director Caroline Redman Lusher and 60 Rock Choir leaders who run weekly singing sessions across the UK were on stage to perform with the choir.

Local Rock Choir leaders Stephanie Bailey and Katie Thomas said: "We worked really hard rehearsing for this fantastic event and it was all worth it. I'm so proud of everyone and it was great to see our flags and banners flying.

"Being able to sing with thousands of other Rock Choir members in such a huge and iconic arena was hugely uplifting and inspiring. The sound was just incredible."

A poignant moment came when Sarah Godwin, whose son Quentin went missing 21 years ago, talked about her search for him.

She told the packed arena how with the support of Rock Choir, the charity Missing People had offered a lifeline to her and her family.

RAF CELEBRATES ITS PROUD LOCAL LINKS AT MoD St ATHAN

The 75th anniversary cake.

RAF personnel past, present and future, gathered at MoD St Athan on July 9, to celebrate the 75th anniversary of the continued occupancy of the RAF and No 4 School of Technical Training at the site.

A number of visitors were ex-boy entrants who had chosen to make the date to coincide with their annual reunion. Some had even come from as far afield as Canada. Many high ranking officers, who had St Athan connections, including Air Officer Wales, Air Commodore Williams and ex-St Athan Commanding Officer, now Group Captain Rob Woods, were also in attendance, together with local dignitaries and Vale MP Mr Alun Cairns.

The day began with a meet and greet and the chance to view some RAF history in Harlech Flight. This building was remembered by many as the former Sandes Club and brought back many happy memories for many an ex-Serviceman or woman.

Everyone then moved to the Station's Astra Cinema where the current Station Commander, Wing Commander Paul Regan, gave a welcome brief and overview of MoD St Athan today.

Other events throughout the day included a service in the Station Church, now a multi-faith centre, to mark the occasion.

This was well attended and to accommodate the 600 plus people, the doors which join the church to the gymnasium had to be opened.

The address was made by Rev Colin Richards, the (St Athan) Military Wives Choir sang accompanied by the RAF St Athan Voluntary Band and the soloist for the service was Mrs Wendy Kupinski.

Children from Wick and Marcross School also attended, along with the Normandy Veterans Association.

Following the service, there was the opportunity to view the many different aspects of military life at St Athan, past, present and future. In the stone gym, different trade groups had set out stands demonstrating the most up-to-date training methods alongside some of the older equipment that the RAF has used.

Former Instructor, John Lynch, said: "It has been a wonderful opportunity for me to come and see what has transpired there since I left over 26 years ago.

"I was surprised to find that Electrical Training Flight (ETF) training continues in the same hangar that I was responsible for all those years ago.

"I received a very warm welcome by everybody and enjoyed a tour of the present day training facilities.

"It was most interesting also to see the developments in the Principles Flight, as I had taken up a related teaching role at a local college on leaving the RAF at St Athan.

"I was made very welcome by the staff and it made my day to meet one of them who started his Direct Entry Technician course while I was at ETF."

RAF Careers were able to show all the current roles in the RAF today and explain the modern recruiting process. The centre piece display was a full size replica Spitfire which proved as popular with the younger visitors as it did with the more mature ones who could remember them flying.

At 2pm, there was a formal parade that had the veterans parading alongside. Serving Airmen of the present and Air Cadets, who will be the next generation.

Parade Commander Flight Lieutenant Dave Nash carried the Wilkinson Sword, which was loaned to the station to mark the event. The Wilkinson Sword is owned by the Vale of Glamorgan and was a gift to the borough when RAF Falcons arrive.

RAF St Athan was granted the Freedom of the Borough in May 1974.

Officer Commanding No 22 (Training) Group, Air Vice Marshal Mike Lloyd, took the salute, with a flypast by a Hawk Aircraft from RAF Valley.

AVM Lloyd then reviewed the troops, taking the opportunity to speak to several from each of the contingents. There was also a flyby by a VC10 and a De Havilland Hornet Moth.

The event concluded with a spectacular jump by the RAF Falcon parachute display team.

Mayor of the Vale, Mrs Margaret Wilkinson, was invited to join Wing Commander Regan to take the salute before being introduced to the team.

Background

The Ministry of Defence purchased land from local farms at Eglwys Brewis in June 1936.

However, Eglwys Brewis was not to be the allocated name for the new camp, as it was generally assumed that RAF St Athan would be easier to pronounce.

The building work commenced in 1938 with an RAF hospital and throughout the year a perimeter track was laid and three grass runways. Keen to finish for occupancy, a recreation building was put up which housed an Astra cinema, large dance hall/gymnasium, three churches, a swimming pool and a large roller skating rink.

The first station commander, Group Captain E Brownson-Rice, also arrived in 1938 accompanied by the adjutant, Flight Lieutenant The Lord Dudley. In addition, the first party of 25 airmen transferred from 2 (Training) Wing at RAF Henlow.

Despite the accommodation being 'basic', each hut was allowed a single wireless (radio) at the cost of one penny per man per week.

Added to this, the airmen had to pay sixpence a week towards a ticket home when they had leave, four shillings a week to their family allotment, plus sixpenny haircut tokens and all this from a wage of two shillings a day.

Less than a year after the gates to the camp opened they received a visit from the Prime Minister, Mr Neville Chamberlain (June 1939).

At 1100hrs on September 2 1939, an Air Ministry signal ordered the general mobilisation of the RAF.

Two days later, war was declared and within the next two days over 1,300 airmen arrived. Everyone was ordered to send home all their civilian clothes – and even the Station Commander got involved in the sandbag filling.

In 1942, 4SoTT started training flight engineers on the Stirling, Halifax, Lancaster, Sunderland, Liberator and Catalina. By the end of 1943, the extremely high casualty rate on Bomber Command operations meant that there was a huge demand for flight engineers.

At the height of the war, there could be as many as 5,000 flight engineers training at St Athan at any one time, with 500 at a time completing their training.

After the war, the station continued working on its geographical divide, with the West Camp home to the maintenance units whilst the East Camp continued as the home of No 4 School of Technical Training.

Meeting members of the Association.

Over the years, it has also been home to the Driver Training School, RAF Mountain Rescue Unit, Aircraft Recovery and Transportation and at its height was home to over 14,000 personnel.

Therefore, it was no surprise that more than 300 veterans returned to meet up with old friends, relive their youth, and to visit 4SoTT and see the changes made in training techniques and technology over the years.

New priest Melanie sports red!

MANCHESTER-born Melanie Prince has taken over as priest-in-charge at Porthkerry and Rhose from Rev David Treharne, who has moved to Tidenham (St Mary) with Beachley and Lancut in the diocese of Gloucester.

Melanie was licensed in a special service at St Peter's Church, Rhose, by the Assistant Bishop of Llandaff, David Wilbourne, last week.

During her first year at Lampeter University Melanie felt God was calling her to serve as a minister and switched courses from ancient history and archaeology to theology.

"I was the first person from my family to go to university and growing up on a council estate in Manchester meant that I thought being a vicar was something that old, posh blokes did!" said Melanie.

"I thought vicars were nice and they weren't distant to me, I went to Sunday school and church youth groups, but it just wasn't something that I thought someone like me would do."

The lifelong Manchester United fan and Star Trek enthusiast moves to the parish of Porthkerry and Rhose from Llantwit Major, where she was team vicar for five years. Prior to that she was curate at Gabalfa for seven years, and before that she was curate at Aberavon for three years.

When Melanie isn't wearing her dog collar, she might well be wearing her Star Trek outfit as she attends conventions around the country with her husband Darren (44), a university lecturer and their two daughters Hannah (12), and Naomi (eight).

Melanie is now looking forward to getting to know her new parishioners: "My main plan is to get to know our new church family and to work out the way forward together. I am not coming here with any preconceived ideas of what I am going to do – we will work it out together."

She will serve at St Curig's Church in Porthkerry and St Peter's in Rhose.

Melanie will also work closely with Archdeacon Peggy Jackson, priest in charge of the neighbouring parish of Penmark with Llanfarcian and Llantrithyd in a cluster arrangement.

This follows recommendations from the Church in Wales review, with the two parishes now sharing and rationalising resources for their mutual benefit.

NEWS IN AND OUT OF CLASS FROM YSGOL GYMRAEG DEWI SANT

Fun and games on the school's sports day as the sun shines

YSGOL Dewi Sant held its second sports day recently on the sports field and, thankfully, this year the sun was shining!

The pupils in nursery, reception and year-1 were all placed in their houses and wore red, blue, green and yellow in order to identify the teams.

All of the races were fiercely competitive, as the pupils were keen to show off their skills in running competitions, bouncing races, obstacle races and the finale of a relay race with water.

During a break, all of the pupils were rewarded with ice pops and cold drinks.

The event in Llantwit Major was very well supported by parents and grandparents, who enjoyed the sunshine and cheered everyone on.

Looking back on exciting times

AS the school reaches the end of only its second year, the children and staff at Ysgol Gymraeg Dewi Sant have been looking back at all of the exciting activities that have been going on.

We watched the eggs hatch in the incubator and enjoyed looking after the chicks. We grew vegetables in the garden to cook with and we welcomed a visit from some friendly owls on our wildlife day.

The PTA organised a sponsored circuits day where we kept fit by running around an obstacle course all day.

We made dens in the outdoors to provide shade from the sun, before making natural crowns from the twigs, leaves and moss that we collected.

Since the weather has been so warm recently, we decided to treat ourselves by making fruity lollies to help cool us off. Last week, the nursery class took their teddy bears for a picnic, where we sang songs and played games. So much fun!

We're looking forward to coming back in September after a well-deserved break! Places are now available for nursery places at the Llantwit Major school.

SCHOOL CHARITY DAY RAISES 'INCREDIBLE' £1,265 FOR THE LATCH CHILDREN'S CHARITY

The school in good voice.

The sellers get busy.

ST CYRES school recently held its annual charity fundraising day after the final lesson of the day.

The whole school got together and worked as a team for LATCH.

The atmosphere in the yard was electric, as dozens of tables were set up selling a range of items and refreshments.

Some pupils held quizzes they had designed and there were fashion stalls with an assortment of clothing, jewellery and face-painting.

Inside the gym, year-9 pupils organised a dodgeball event and teams were encouraged to sign up for a small fee. Shaquille Coles of year-7 won the 'keepy-uppie' event with a score of over 300!

Luckily, the weather was perfect and the 'Soak the Teacher' area proved one of the most popular attractions, as pupils were able to have fun with some of their favourite teachers who braved the icy water and sponges aimed at their heads!

Alexis Richards in year-10 had a great idea to use the charity day as an opportunity to de-clutter her bedroom and raffled a large collection of cuddly toys, together with friends selling cakes, which altogether raised over £40. Pupil donations for the treat of wearing non-uniform clothes for the day were collected in the morning and many pupils visibly demonstrated their support for LATCH by wearing the colour purple - while a few pupils struggled in the heat by wearing furry animal onesies!

This alone raised over £500; but following all of the activities, pupils increased the grand total to an incredible £1,265.80.

The whole event was filmed for St Cyres TV and an edited version can be watched via the school website www.stcyres.org, by clicking on the SCTV link.

LATCH was voted for by pupils as this year's charity from a list of 10 local charities.

Signing choir

ON July 10, the signing choir from St Cyres School performed at the ASDA store in Cardiff Bay.

Years 7, 8 and 9 and everyone practised hard to perfect three songs. Thanks to the generosity of shoppers visiting the store, we were able to raise £104 for the charity Hearing Dogs for Deaf People. This money will now be used to train a puppy, and we will be regularly updated on its progress. SB

ART ON THE STATION...

Art at the Travellers cafe/gallery

VOGA (Vale of Glamorgan Artists) group is back with a new exhibition, 'Splash' at the Travellers in Mind cafe/gallery, Barry Railway station.

The exhibition is open on weekday mornings only, until September 13.

Bracken and Bronte lead group ramble through Cosmeston

SEVEN Penarth and District Ramblers joined Joy, Bracken and Bronte at Cosmeston in very warm sunshine - with only a hint of a breeze - to enjoy an evening ramble that took in the delights of the country park.

The area was once medieval farmland but because underlying natural springs kept the land wet and boggy, growing crops was not easy. Between the 1890s and 1970, Cosmeston was a commercial limestone quarry serving the concrete factory where the Schooner stands; but the area constantly had to be pumped dry and following the factory closure and the pub being built, the pumping stopped.

The quarry was allowed to fill with water and the park was developed, which is now enjoyed by locals and visitors.

Leaving the main car park, the group walked past the thatched buildings of the medieval village, discovered when the park was being excavated, and crossing Mile Road entered a field where the ruins of the old columbarium or dovecote stand, which is very interesting because of its ruined state, the nesting boxes on the inside can be clearly seen.

Enjoying the slight breeze, the group had glorious views across farmland down towards Barry before dropping downhill, crossing the wooden footbridge over the Sully Brook to make their way onto a path at the rear of Cogan Wood, where the shade was appreciated.

Exiting into a valley, they passed the dipping pond and entered one of the huge enclosed grass and flower meadows where the temperature suddenly became very humid before re-crossing

Mile Road into a second enclosed meadow.

Exiting through a gate, they chatted to two female horse riders out enjoying the balmy weather, before the group entered cool woodland.

They reached a bench by the runes where scripted shapes are carved into wooden posts, which form letters, or have particular meanings that act as an alphabet to translate messages. Continuing on, they reached the old bearded man carved out of a tree trunk, before crossing the top quarry and taking the main pathway back through Cogan Wood to re-emerge in a meadow and return to the car park.

On July 27, meet at 9am at the Barry Waterfront for a nine-mile easy/moderate walk at Merthyr Mawr and Newton; contact Val on 01446 734925.

On August 1, the evening ramble will leave Penarth cliff top car park at 7pm for a four-mile easy/moderate walk taking in Cosmeston and the disused railway line; contact Ann on 029 2040 7319.

Programmes and membership advice can be obtained from Pam on 029 2025 5102.

JOY STRANGWARD

NEARLY NEW SALE

THERE will be a sale of ladies' nearly new clothes in the Lesser Hall, Victoria Square, Penarth, on July 31, from 2pm until 3.30pm; admission 50p. All proceeds to charity.

SPOOKY TALES... PHANTOMS THAT WANDER RUINED ISLAND HOSPITAL

THE limestone island of Flat Holm, (or Ynys Echni in Welsh), lies in the Bristol Channel, around four miles from Lavernock Point in the Vale of Glamorgan.

It is classed as the most southerly point of Wales and is steeped in historical artifacts.

Flat Holm became a fortified island in 1869, after a visit from Queen Victoria and Prince Albert. Batteries and stone barracks (to sleep up to 50 men) were erected to protect Bristol and Cardiff from the French Navy.

Flat Holm played its own unique part during World War Two, when 350 soldiers from the Royal Artillery were stationed on the island. To accommodate them, a radar station was built, and Flat Holm became an armed island for defence against the enemy with four small guns, searchlights and two bofor guns.

The separate defences included Castle Rock Battery, Farm House Battery, Well Battery and Lighthouse Battery, which ran from the northern to southern points of the island for protection.

The station at the heart of the island became part of the fixed defences, and was protected by shipping convoys between the island itself, Barry and Cardiff.

After the war, the works became redundant and were left to nature, although the helipad still remains at the island's core.

Also on the island are the remains of the Cholera Hospital, built in 1883, after three seamen from the steamship Rishunglys were abandoned on the island, because they were thought to have contracted cholera. Unfortunately, one of them later died.

They were given a canvas tent for shelter, a dubious means of accommodation on such an open and vulnerable island, prone to extreme weather and high winds.

The residents were outraged by this 'invasion', and lobbied Cardiff Council for compensation. They claimed that the presence of disease damaged their livelihoods and deterred people from visiting the island.

In 1896, the Marquis of Bute, who owned the island, agreed to lease the remaining land to Cardiff Corporation for £50 a year. They proceeded to build a solid isolation unit on the land unoccupied by the lighthouse and military, to keep this disease at bay.

It contained two six-bed wards and a nurse's room, so that care could be given to victims.

In 1893, three more sailors were extradited to the isolation hospital on the island. They were from the SS Blue Jacket, a ship from Marseilles, and were named as Thomas Smith, an engineer, Robert Doran, and PJ Morris, who incidentally recovered.

The last person to die in the hospital was a victim of the bubonic plague, and was cremated and buried on the island in the late 19th Century.

The Grade II listed Victorian hospital, as well as the laundry block, closed in 1935. They remain derelict and on the Buildings at Risk Register to this day.

The eerie sight of a long-forgotten sailor seems to roam the cliffs of the island as if in search of his lost ship. Where could this sailor have come from, and why would he want to remain in an area far beyond his superficial world?

The creepy corridor of the ruined hospital seems to echo the footsteps of a deceased person, yet no physical body is performing these reverberations. Could the people of yesteryear be trying to urgently remind the living of the perils of disease?

The spectral image of a seemingly distressed nurse wearing an old fashioned uniform and headdress, seems to wander through the ruined walls of the old hospital.

Could this ghostly being be forlorn because her place of work is no longer in use, or just a restless soul vying to be remembered?

Chilling shouts for help have been heard from the raging sea at the dead of night, yet no physical person is ever seen in danger. Could the people from a bygone era be unknowingly causing panic amongst the living who mistakenly believe that somebody is drowning at such an untimely hour?

The phantom sight of a distinguished looking man has been witnessed patrolling around the Canon and Moncrieff Pit near the lighthouse.

Strange lights have also been seen here, and the chilling feeling of being watched by unseen eyes.

Could this gentleman be Thomas Barrett, the Master Gunner, who was stationed on the island to keep military equipment in working order in 1880s, or just another trick of the imagination?

Fact or fiction? Only you can decide...

All the fun of the country fair

by GLYN EVANS

FONMON CASTLE held a country fair recently and people were able to sample some of the wonderful produce from rural areas and meet members of the farming community.

Man is jailed for dodging council tax

A CARDIFF man was arrested and taken to prison for 13 days, after repeatedly refusing to pay his Vale Council tax.

Peter Evans, of Havannah Street, Butetown, who had previously owned a property on Windsor Road, Penarth, had received a suspended sentence for culpable neglect and wilful refusal to pay a total of £1,218.57 at Cardiff Magistrates Court on January 24, 2013.

Magistrates ordered Mr Evans to pay £20 each fortnight to the Vale of Glamorgan Council.

The Vale had the highest council tax collection rate in south Wales for the financial year 2012/13 at 97.6 per cent, an increase of 0.3 per cent on the previous year.

During the period April 1 2012 to March 31 2013, a total of 141 cases were considered serious enough to warrant committal action and the defaulters were summonsed to appear before magistrates.

Failure to attend resulted in a total of 101 arrest warrants issued by magistrates, of which 36 received custodial sentences.

A total of £210,000 was collected.

Colwinston cycle stop-over

COLWINSTON is one of three Welsh villages among 51 in the UK taking part in a historic event – to recognise the contribution made by returning soldiers from World War I.

The Thankful Villages Run is a nine-day charity ride, taking place between July 27 and August 4, to present each community with a slate plaque, to commemorate those fortunate enough to return home in 1918.

This Saturday, Dougie

Bancroft and Medwyn Parry – the two motorcyclists behind the charity ride – will be visiting Colwinston.

As well as recognising the debt paid by the young men who returned from the Great War, the Thankful Villages Run aims to raise £51,000 in aid of the Royal British Legion.

The two men will visit every village to present residents, who include descendants of those who survived the Great War, with a commemorative slate plaque and certificate.

Full details of the route can be found at: <http://www.thankfulvillagesrun.com/schedule.php>.

A clean sweep for the enchanting village of Gileston!

THE Vale of Glamorgan Best Kept Village competition is 60 years old this year, and after a busy couple of weeks of judging, the winners were announced at a special awards evening in Ystradowen Village Hall.

There were whoops of delight as the chief judge announced that Gileston had swept to victory.

Mrs Rosamund Davies said: "Gileston is a most enchanting village which gives you a lovely welcome with the signposts being underplanted with roses at both ends of the village. You immediately felt you wanted to explore further."

The second prize went to Llanmaes, third prize went to Wenvoe, and fourth prize to Pendoylan.

Gileston also won the prize for their Diamond Jubilee entry, which features four crowns for four seasons.

Wenvoe and Gileston both received prizes for the special village feature each had entered. Wenvoe is developing a Welsh orchard with a special herb garden, using the types of herbs that were used by the physicians of Myddfai.

Gileston has decorated two derelict buildings with flowers, to add to the beauty of the centre of the village.

The committee chairman, Irena Wasilewska, stressed the debt of gratitude that is owed to sponsors over the years.

She thanked current sponsors – Vale of Glamorgan Council, community and town councils, Cowbridge Compost, LGA Birkett, AG Adams, The National Trust at Dyffryn Gardens, and Ffos Las Racecourse.

She also thanked the supporters who regularly help with the awards evening, and those who donated raffle prizes, including a gift from Leekes.

First prize – Gileston – villagers with the BKV Cup.

Second prize – Llanmaes, Jackie Simpson.

Third prize – Wenvoe, Phil Morant.

Fourth prize – Pendoylan, Judith Roberts.

Arctic Star update

THE Bridgend MP, Madeleine Moon, has warned that next-of-kin applications for the Arctic Star will not be processed until September.

Mrs Moon said she was informed of the September processing date in a reply to a parliamentary question.

A constituent had approached her about the time it would take for applications to be processed. The Arctic Star has been issued in recognition of service on the Arctic convoys during World War Two.

The MP pointed out: "Quite rightly, applications from surviving veterans are being prioritised. The Ministry of Defence aims to process these applications within two months. Next of kin will start being processed in September, so if your application falls into this category, it will be several months before you hear anything."

Details of how to apply for the medal are available through this link: http://www.veterans-uk.info/arctic_star_index.htm, or by calling the MoD medal office on 08457 800 900.

Classes well supported at Llancarfan Show

AFTER a one-year break and a few months of planning, the 2013 Llancarfan village show was staged on July 13 in Llancarfan Village Hall, St Cadoc's church, a marquee erected behind the hall, and four smaller gazebos.

Two of the gazebos were used to promote the Llancarfan Community Cinema run by Jim Barratt which has just finished its first successful season, another housed the Llancarfan Society plant stall run by Kay and Lucy Brain, and the remaining gazebo was used to provide fun and games for the younger visitors which was organised and run by Jane Williams.

Unfortunately, the number of entries in the fruit and vegetable classes was down on the previous show in 2011, but this was due to the very poor weather experienced at the start of the year, with the growing season slipping a good six weeks.

However, despite this, most other classes were well supported and by 10:30am all entries were in their places around the show site, awaiting the judges' decisions.

The panel of judges patiently examined and/or tasted all the entries and winners and runners-up in each of the classes were decided.

Prior to the show opening to the public, the judges and stewards were treated to an excellent lunch in the village hall which had been prepared by Melinda Thomas and her mum Sandra who made the most wonderfully light coffee cake.

With the fantastic weather, many residents from the village and surrounding areas attended and enjoyed the village event.

Alun Cairns, MP for the Vale, once again attended and together with Jim Barratt, the vice-chair of the Llancarfan Society, presented the cups to the overall winners.

The village show, again was a huge success and this would not have been possible without the chair of show Sue Taylor and the show committee, but special thanks must go to Anne Ferris the show secretary for the meticulous planning and organisation who was presented with a beautiful bunch of flowers by Alun Cairns, in recognition of her outstanding effort.

Roll on next year's show!

Pendoylan pupils have a great sports day

Pictures by MIKE WILCOCK

PENDOYLAN Church in Wales primary school held its annual summer sports day recently.

As you can see from photographer Mike Wilcock's images of an exciting day, the children enjoyed all the traditional sports day races such as the sprint, the sack race and the egg and spoon race, while mums and dads and grandparents suffered a few blisters when they were roped into the 'tug of war' challenge.

Too dry for Llantwit's lady bowlers

ON Tuesday, 16-21, Llantwit Major lady bowlers travelled to Porthcawl Prince of Wales Court BC to play a Cowbridge Challenge Shield match.

We didn't do very well on a very dry rink, and came away with only one point from the 10 available. The rinks were Edna Hardie, Lyn Oatley, Etta Gray and Eryl Nicholls 13-13; Liz Crouch, Margaret Horgan, Carol Willmot and Julie Molloy 12-14, and Kay Johnes, Ann Mutlow, Margaret Morgan and Peggy Pike 16-21.

On Thursday we welcomed Barry Athletic BC to Llantwit Major for a league match where we fared a bit better, gaining six from the 10 points available, winning on one rink and losing on two but getting the overall score by 1/4 of a point.

The rinks were Liz Crouch, Eryl Nicholls, Julie Molloy and Carol Willmot 16-19; Kay Johnes, Margaret Horgan, Peggy Pike and Margaret Morgan 20-9 and 3/4 and Edna Hardie, Barbara Lewis, Pat Cook and Marian Lewis 17-24, KJ

TALYGARN YOUNG RIDERS SHOW OFF SKILLS WITH A SERIES OF DISPLAYS

RIGHT:
This display was less about horses, and more about dalmations!

WHAT a lovely sunny day it turned out to be for the young people at Talygarn recently, when they performed their displays to around 360 friends, family and spectators.

The displays started with a mini-major jumping competition in which an older and a younger rider jumped a course of jumps.

The competition was won by Malissa Yates, 16, of Pontyclun and Olivia Murray, 11, from Pontypridd. It was followed by several vaulting displays including a performance by 101 Dalmations, The Lion King, Red Indians, and a canter performance by the A Squad.

The Musical Ride performed to a selection of ABBA songs and the day ended with a fast and fun display of gymnastics skills.

The Vaulters are a club based at Talygarn and money raised will go towards more catsuits for the squads and towards funding the cost of entering teams at the British Championships at Leighton Buzzard in September

Roller skaters show their artistic side

Roller Freestyle.

Roller duos.

THE Vale of Glamorgan Artistic Roller Skating Club held its second annual competition recently, at Llantwit Major Leisure Centre.

In the morning, the Federation of Artistic Roller Skating tests were held.

Kaitlin Daly took her elementary test and passed. Lara Goodwin passed both elementary and preliminary tests. Lesley Fletcher passed her inter silver test.

It now means the club has four inter silver medallists as coaches, under head coach Sheila Davies.

Competitions were as follows: Barry Tyre Centre Trophy, for beginners, nine competitors. Maya Archampong came first, Evie Denbury second and Emily Eveleigh third.

Ben's Barber Shop Trophy, Charleigh Griffith was the winner out of 10 competing. In second was Medi Western and third Dee Louise Clarke.

Barratt's the Butcher's Trophy, winner Hannah John, second Charleigh Griffith, third Bethan Daly (out of 11 competitors).

George Morgan Memorial Trophy for duos, the winners were Kaitlin Daly and Phoebe Escott. Second were Lara Goodwin and Hannah John, and third were Bethan Daly and Michael Vaughan.

Julia Davies Cup (beginners duos), first, Tayla Goodwin and Sian Nicholas, second Dee Louise Clarke and Maya Archampong, and third Emily Eveleigh and Mollie Griffith.

Tony Voddan Memorial Trophy for skaters grade 6 and above, the winner was Kaitlin Daly, second was Lara Goodwin, and third was Phoebe Escott.

Vale of Glamorgan Skating Club Trophy, a solo event open to all with 14 competitors, the winner was Kaitlin Daly, who skated to 'Rocky', second was Lara Goodwin who skated to 'Doll on a Musical Box', and third was Michael Vaughan who was '007'. There were super costumes and lovely music.

The winner of the most improved skater of the year, winning the Julie Whittingham Plate, was Charlie Griffith; and a small token, because he makes us smile, was awarded to Byron Western.

Judges of the day were Tarnia Bowman and Julie Whittingham, who were presented with bouquets.

Disabilities group hands golf awards to children

Jane Hutt presents John Hasting with a certificate of appreciation for his tuition.

THE Vale AM, Jane Hutt presented certificates at the end of a golfing course for children and adults with disabilities from Special Olympics Cardiff & Vale Golf Group.

The group, working in partnership with Golf Development Wales and Disability Sport Wales, held a 12-week golf tuition course for children and adults with disabilities at St Andrews Major Golf Club, with tuition by golf professional John Hasting.

The group will continue to meet every Friday at the golf course, it is hoped to run further courses in the future.

During the evening, the group was also presented with an Insport certificate by Disability Sport Wales.

Barry Town United invited to coach future soccer stars

THE Vale Council has demonstrated its "commitment to local football" by inviting Barry Town United Football Club to run the Vale of Glamorgan football centre of development.

A spokesperson explained that the move aims to increase the club's presence in the community and to provide opportunities for talented young players.

As well as providing a direct link with the community, the club has plans for a fully functioning training academy in the future, which is likely to be a requirement as they seek to gain promotion to the Welsh Premier League.

The present centre would be an ideal starting point for such an academy.

The Vale of Glamorgan football centre of development has operated for approximately 10 years, and has provided quality coaching for talented young footballers, both boys and girls.

It has previously been operated directly by the council's sports development team. However, an internal review of the centre has shown that numbers have dropped and that there are now several commercial competitors offering similar opportunities across south Wales.

One of the main reasons for the reduction in numbers has been the lack of progression opportunities for talented players.

Coun Gwyn John, cabinet member for leisure, parks, culture and sport development, said: "It is vital that we raise the standards of football coaching available to young people in the Vale of Glamorgan and support the star players of the future."

"This agreement with Barry Town United Football Club also demonstrates our unflinching support of the club itself, following the FAW's devastating decision to deny the club full membership."

"We are confident that the Vale of Glamorgan football centre of development will thrive under the guidance of the club and we encourage young people in the Vale to get involved in local football."

VALE GOLF ACADEMY: Father and son team up!

A LOCAL golfer has shunned the life of a tournament professional - to follow in his father's footsteps and become a teaching pro at the Vale Resort Golf Academy, near Hensol in the Vale.

Matthew Coombs (22), who qualified last month with a degree in applied golf management from Birmingham University, joins father Clive as part of the four-strong coaching set-up at the Resort, which gives individual and group lessons to members and non-members of all ages from across south Wales.

The Junior Academy at the Vale has produced a number of young golfing stars in recent years, including current European Amateur Championship Cup winner and 2013 Open qualifier Rhys Pugh.

Matthew is looking forward to getting stuck into his new role as a full-time teaching pro and putting some of his studies into practice: "The PGA degree course has been a fantastic experience for me and has really launched my career as a teaching pro," he said.

"The Vale Resort already has a great reputation for coaching juniors but we are always looking to develop new programmes that are tailored to different types of golfers, from complete beginners to ladies, or even experienced players that want to improve certain areas of their game."

"We have also worked with some fantastic groups of disabled golfers, and that is one part of the job that really excites me."

Cowbridge take south Wales title

COWBRIDGE men's tennis team is celebrating after winning the AEGON Team Tennis (south Wales) Division One this summer.

Traditionally, Welsh League tennis has been dominated by doubles play only. The AEGON competition is different – with a deliberate emphasis on singles play.

Cowbridge completed four fixtures against some formidable local opponents – Whitchurch, Crickhowell, Rhiwbina and Cardiff Castle. All four fixtures were won – but not without a fight.

Thankfully, Cowbridge's greater experience in the final two doubles events always proved decisive. Overall 16 of 24 individual matches were won. The games count of 225 to 187 records the intensity of the individual battles!

As south Wales champions, Cowbridge TC's AEGON 'horizons' will now extend over the Severn Bridge in 2014 to include Anglo/Welsh fixtures with the likes of Bath, Worcester and Birmingham.

Club captain Ian Duggan could not praise highly enough the contribution of Anthony James (captain) and all of his AEGON squad during this busy summer.

The squad comprised Anthony James, Mike Harpin, Simon Lake, Sean Lake, Dave Cunningham, Gareth Tremain, Chris Lewis, Ian Duggan and Allan Duggan.

Ian said: "This raises the bar considerably for us and underlines the quality of the tennis experience now at Cowbridge for all members, old and new!"

Anyone interested in joining Cowbridge TC and playing competitive tennis should contact Ian Duggan on 07919816609. Ladies team practices are on Tuesday evenings and men's team practices are on Thursday evenings.

Llangennech prove to be too strong for the Second XI

WITH temperatures in the high 20s and the sun continuing to shine, Cowbridge Second XI travelled to Llangennech last Saturday.

Upon arrival, it was immediately evident that the Llangennech ground had suffered with the unusually hot weather, with the wicket resembling 22 yards of crazy paving and the outfield a biscuity brown colour.

Cowbridge fielded first and started well with Gareth John trapping one of the opening batsmen LBW with Rian Thomas having the other batsman caught, to leave Llangennech on 11 for 2 after the first 7 overs.

However, despite these early successes the run rate started to escalate as the Llangennech batsmen found the boundary on regular occasions, assisted by an outfield that was incredibly quick with any ball piercing the infield racing to the boundary.

Unfortunately, the Cowbridge bowling became quite wayward which allowed for the score to rise quickly but, perversely, wickets still continued to fall.

The ever-consistent Ian Evans picked up wickets along with a further wicket for Rian Thomas. There were also two wickets for Joe Russell, who also bowled well. In the end, Gareth John had the Llangennech number 11 caught with Llangennech all out for 248 off 47 overs.

This was an impressive total, and Cowbridge knew that it would take a fine batting performance if they were to stand a chance of overhauling nearly 250. Although the Cowbridge openers, Josh Basey and Jonty Webb, started brightly, both were out in quick succession, which brought about a mini collapse to leave Cowbridge tottering at 32 for 4 off 15 overs.

Some stability was then provided by an excellent partnership between Ian Evans and Alex Scot-Coombes. Both batted very well; solid in defence but also putting away any bad deliveries when they came.

The score began to rise, aided, it must be said, by a number of extras, until Alex was out for a well made 31. After this point, the rest of the Cowbridge batsmen fell away with Cowbridge finally all out for 149, leaving Ian high and dry on 41, disappointingly close to a well-deserved 50.

Yet another defeat for Cowbridge, but it was good to welcome back Chris Ross to the side after a long absence through injury and also the performances from Alex Scot-Coombes, Rian Thomas and Gareth John were positives to take out of the game.

Cowbridge are at home to Neath this week and maybe, just maybe, Cowbridge might record their first victory of the season.

Harvey hits purple patch

AS the UK temperature rises and the competition in the fiercely-contested British Super 1 Series heats up accordingly, 15-year-old Tom Harvey has hit a rich vein of form to banish a rotten run of early-season ill-fortune and vault himself firmly into the title reckoning.

on the grid for the pre-final.

After losing out at the start by dint of being on the unenviable outside line, the 15-year-old clawed his way grittily back through, only for the driver in third to turn in on him as he attempted to seize the position.

The collision relegated him to a frustrated and unrepresentative eighth at the chequered flag, but fastest lap ably demonstrated that he had the potential to regain ground in the grand final, where he had a spectacular success, and a second consecutive fastest lap simply served to underline Harvey's dominance in his THR Graphics and VIP Vehicle Integration Products-backed KR-Sport kart.

The third-highest scorer of the weekend, he travelled to PF and promptly proved that he is every bit as capable of triumphing away from home turf, too.

Quick in all conditions right from the 'off', the Cowbridge Comprehensive School pupil comfortably paced his session in qualifying and lined up third overall amongst the bumper, 47-strong field before demoted the Vale ace to sixth, but displaying tremendous strength of character and composure, he refused to let the setback defeat him, and having scythed through into the lead by half-distance, he thereafter controlled proceedings beautifully to seal a superb double victory.

Harvey's peerless form in recent outings has catapulted him up the title standings into fourth position out of the 52 contenders, meaning with two meetings remaining – at Larkhall and Shenington – he is very much in the hunt for glory.

"I've climbed a long way up the order since Rowrah, but there's still a bit further to go if I want to have the no.1 on my kart again next year – and that is definitely the goal."

'BACK BARRY TOWN' – CALL

THE Vale Council is urging residents to support Barry Town United FC at their home friendly match on Saturday (July 27). Cardiff City are the visitors to Jenner Park, Barry, in a pre-season friendly match.

Coun Gwyn John, cabinet member for leisure, parks, culture and sport development at the council said: "This is a great opportunity for the people to come out in support of their club and make it a wonderful day for the whole of the town."

"I encourage everyone to show their support for the club. My colleagues and I will be attending the game, which I am sure will demonstrate to the football world what Barry Town means to us all."

Ladies defeat the hot weather!

THE ladies of Cowbridge Bowls Club again had only one match this week, a CCS at home to Bridgend Municipal, which they won 61 shots to 20, winning on all three rinks.

Skip Anne Jarvis' rink with Margaret Cooper, Dorothy Pritchard and Joan Bradley won 26-7, and on skip Joy

Woolford's rink with Diane Purnell, Diane Lloyd and Jan Lewis, they won 15-7.

The rink with skip Pat Holdsworth, Lynda Wilson, Mary Dowdle and Kay Edwards, won 20-6; again, umbrellas and plenty of cold water helped the ladies combat the hot weather.

Their league match at Rhoeose was not played due to the Rhoeose Ladies being unable to raise a team.

The men, in their Munro Cup match at home to Barry Central, had a big win of 120 shots to 33, winning on all four rinks to gain 14 points.

win by 27-4.

The biggest win was on skip Roger Barwick's rink by 50-11, with our scoreboards only going up to 49! Supporting Roger were Clive Pritchard, Ron Woolford and Byron Richards.

Skip Norman Wilkinson's rink with Ron Frayling, Colin Wilson and John Trott also won well, 30-9.

The rink of Terry Dunsworth, Gerry Lloyd, Peter Launder and skip Steve Dickens had a tough game but managed to win 23-13.
